

Powerful ingredients work in combination to fight free radicals.

Açai contains powerful antioxidants and anthocyanins, as well as a naturally occurring array of essential fatty acids, amino acids and plant sterols.

Pomegranate delivers antioxidant activity that was measured three times higher than red wine and green tea.

Cranberry contains a wide variety of compounds, but proanthocyanidins may be responsible for their beneficial effects on the urinary tract.

Blueberry was rated as the No. 1 antioxidant over 40 fruits and vegetables tested by the USDA Human Nutrition Center.

Elderberry may stimulate the production of cytokines, compounds that play a role in the immune response system.

The açai berry has been recognized as the world's No. 1 superfruit.

Free radicals pose a threat to our health.

They attack our cells thousands of times a day, opening the door to long-term, degenerative health concerns and contributing to the aging process. Free radicals damage the cell by causing oxidation—the same process that makes nails rusty and apple slices brown.

Research has shown that the most effective way to defend against free radical damage is to boost the body's immunity with antioxidants. Mistica, a component of Synergy's V3 Nutritional System, accomplishes this with powerful ingredients like acai. The acai berry and other fruits found in Mistica are natural sources of anthocyanins and other antioxidants, which can neutralize harmful free radicals before they cause damage.

The OxiScore Antioxidant Test

A recent study looked at the effect of Mistica consumption in a general population that included smokers, diabetics and obese individuals.

The test subjects drank two servings of Mistica a day for three weeks and were then measured using the OxiScore test, which determines free radical activity. The results were impressive.

Approximately 80 percent of all the subjects showed a decrease in free radical activity, and the group overall experienced a 43 percent reduction in free radical cell damage.

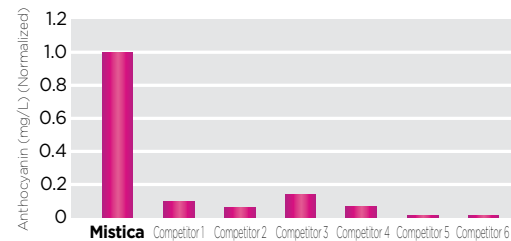

“Many health issues are affected by free radical damage, and the best way that we have found to reduce this damage is to consume good foods and take supplements such as Mistica that contain powerful antioxidants. Antioxidants truly have the power to boost the body's immunity and supercharge our health.”

Anthocyanin Comparison

Anthocyanins impart color to plants that provide powerful antioxidant protection.

*This test was conducted by a reputable, independent lab with no financial connection to Synergy WorldWide. Mistica's effectiveness was measured against other leading liquid nutritional supplements containing blends of fruits such as noni, acai, goji, mangosteen, gac, seabuckthorn and amalaki.

Mistica fruit blend contains naturally occurring levels of:

- Antioxidants to help counter cell inflammation and premature aging.
- Anthocyanins to support the cardiovascular system.
- Essential fatty acids to aid in digestive tract function.
- Phytosterols to help maintain normal cholesterol levels.

With its unique combination of antioxidants, anthocyanins and essential fatty acids, Mistica fights free radical damage better than any fruit blend supplement on the market.

Including a daily serving of Mistica in your nutritional regime helps enhance vitality, while supporting your immune system and cardiovascular health.
